

A School With A Lot of Promise

While the Delta heat and humidity takes its toll on most of us, it never seems to get in the way of the 100 or so students who have been attending the Indianola Promise School. These are rising kindergarteners who are getting a jump on school by attending an intensive, four-week session aimed at preparing them for August classes. Teachers tell us the Promise School makes all the difference in giving students confidence, in providing a foundation for the academic challenges of kindergarten, and teaching them how to work in small groups with certified instructors.

The Indianola Promise School...Starting a lifetime of learning.
